Dear Friends,

We have all heard that the great empires of ancient history have all disappeared. Somehow, though, the Jews remain. And when we hear about the reasons for our survival, we learn that it wasn’t military or physical power that kept us alive; rather it was fidelity to our faith, our people and our traditions. We kept alive ritual and an attachment to our God. We have remained alive because of our emphasis on learning, good deeds and worship.

This is beautifully reflected in a verse in the haftarah we read on Hanukkah, from the prophet Zechariah, “Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit you shall live.” Think about this... Isn’t there a certain irony when we remember the revolt of the Maccabees and their fellow fighters, we say that our survival is because of the spirit?

Perhaps the following makes sense: we can’t live in a world of power without a capacity to assert ourselves and be independent. But we don’t want to live in a world of power without meaning, ethics, thoughtfulness, and without a transcendent spirit. It is a cliché that we know is true; power corrupts and that’s why we need a perspective that includes the spiritual realm and the world of ideas and morality.

On Hanukkah we are reminded of both. We light candles to recall God’s presence. We affirm a spiritual life and we acknowledge that we need some control. But we reject the abuse of authority and the corruption that comes from power, be it political, military or economic.

It is with amazement I consider the meaning of Hanukkah and realize that it’s not just about celebrating an event from the distant past. Hanukkah continues to speak to us and will continue to do so, because its lessons are eternal. We are grateful for the strength we have and acknowledge that it is our responsibility to use it with an eye towards the greater spirit that exists in our universe. That’s as true today as it was during the days of the Macabees and the times of the prophets.

I wish you all a joyful, grateful and meaningful Hanukkah!

Additionally, in a few months, we are honoring two bright lights in our community, Dr. Peter and Elissa Schosheim. Their example as synagogue leaders, as friends, as children and as parents have brought light to all who know them! Please join us at our Gala and step up to support our work in their honor - they have shined their light on us for so many years!

Don’t let the light go out!

Dear Friends,

One of the better-known disagreements between the sages Hillel and Shammai revolves around Hanukkah. Hillel says to light one candle on the first night and to light one more on each succeeding night, while Shammai says start with eight and decrease by one each night. It is easy to surmise that Hillel was quickly deemed right and this has been the practice ever since, but additional sages come to Shammai’s defense and I gather that for a time – maybe a long time – there were two competing traditions on how to light the candles for this mid-winter festival.

What did Shammai have going for him? Well, for one his approach was future-oriented. If you light eight candles on the first night you are lighting a light for each day that remains, while Hillel lit one flame for the days that had already passed. Shammai’s approach seems like a more hopeful and anticipatory approach. And, he knew that there was a strong link between Hanukkah and Sukkot – one telling of the story teaches that the Macabees could not stop to celebrate Sukkot and so they did a “make up holiday” after the fighting was over, and based it on that fall holiday which is, between Sukkot and Shmini Atzeret – eight days! And on that holiday in Temple times one less sacrifice was offered each day of the festival, hence the decreasing number of candles in Shammai’s hanukkiah.

Hillel wins out for our practice, ostensibly because his school of thought puts forth the compelling case that for matters of holiness, we always try to increase, and we never purposefully decrease. That is a statement not about Hanukkah or about Sukkot, but about a life of dedication to what is most important, for eight “wintry” nights and all the others as well.

No one at B’nai Torah better represents the values we commemorate during Hanukkah and helps us look more hopefully to our future as a congregation, community, and people than Peter and Elissa Schosheim. They were among the first to warmly welcome me and my family to B’nai Torah more than twenty years ago. They have raised a beautiful family and model lives of love and dedication to all that is “most important.” They are worthy honorees for our annual Dinner Dance, and I hope – no, I urge – you to be a part of celebrating them on February 1st. It will be a great night, highlighting the exceptional year-round dedication of the Schosheims, and marking a year of growth and accomplishment of our beloved B’nai Torah Congregation.

B’shalom,
Rabbi David Englander
Dear B’nai Torah family,

Let your light shine! Growing up in Israel, I learned a beautiful Hanukkah song in kindergarten and I never forgot the lyrics because they are still relevant today: “Though the night is cold and dark; in our soul there lies a spark. Each of us, is one small light; all together, we shine bright.”

Each of us is a light in this world and if we join together, we create hope for the darkness to diminish. I’m inviting you to figure out what lights up your soul. What light can you share in this world? Which light will you join? An organization? A choir? A mission?

Are you interested in being part of a multi-generational singing group on Friday nights? If so, I would love to share my light with you! I’m looking for adults and children to help create a circle of prayer and song to sing together while bringing in the light of Shabbat for our congregation. Our Shabbat morning service is always welcoming new singers as well.

On Saturday, December 21st, Cantor Davidoff and I invite you to bring your energy and voice to our first Havdalah sing along. We will lead you in songs in Hebrew and English. Come share your voice and light with us.

Our concert series promises to bring so much light and joy to our community. Cantor Shira Lissek and I will begin the series with a tribute to Barbra Streisand’s music, followed by two amazing concerts and a theatrical performance that you won’t want to miss.

I encourage you to try each concert because each evening will enrich your life. Each note is something we learn from, even if we learn that it’s not our taste. We can always be open to take something from it. Do you know the feeling of not wanting to go somewhere or thinking this it is not for you... and then someone convinces you to go? At the end of the night you find that you are grateful that you went because something that evening touched your soul and you connected. Being open to all kinds of art and artists is a great gift and it’s a wonderful way to explore your soul. You learn what you love; what touches you; what lights your heart and what doesn’t.

All of our artists this season are exceptionally talented. Maestro Aaron Kula is known throughout the world. The 3 Cantors have been featured on PBS and are extremely popular all over the country. Experiencing an artist live is different than watching the concert on TV. It’s much more intimate when you see an artist perform, no matter the size of the room. It allows you an opportunity to create a relationship.

More than anything... come to shul, sit with your friends and be with your family. But also bring your friends and neighbors and share your pride.

I’m looking forward to seeing you all. If you have any questions, please don’t hesitate to reach out to me.

Happy Hanukkah and happy concert season. Many blessings and gratitude.

A MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT

When Roseanne and I were “shul shopping” we were so impressed by the wealth of adult education opportunities at B’nai Torah. Every year we attend as many of these classes as possible, and our learning is always enriched by the quality and depth of the teachers and the knowledge they share. We also value the abundance of important and inspirational learnings we receive from our Rabbis each week during Shabbat.

I mention this because it relates to the unbelievable experience we had on our recent trip to Israel in celebration of Rabbi Steinhardt’s 25th anniversary at B’nai Torah. It was similar to moving from theory to practice; from the classroom to a laboratory; or from college to the working world. The places and issues we have discussed in classes and heard about in sermons through the years were suddenly very real and directly in front of us. We stood at the Gaza border and looked out on to the separation barrier. We saw the bomb shelters throughout the moshav and in school playgrounds. We listened to a grandmother tell us about the trauma her 9-year-old grandson suffers every time the sirens go off. Less than a week after we returned from the trip, rockets rained down on the cities we visited, and our response to that news felt even more personal.

During our visit, we had the privilege of meeting with a number of speakers who have been to B’nai Torah. We heard from Donniel Hartman and Micah Goodman at the Hartman Institute. We visited Rabbi Matt Berkowitz and David Moss in their art studios and watched them at work. Of course, it was wonderful to be in their environment, but it was also a reminder of how lucky we are to be part of a synagogue that provides opportunities for us to hear from some of Israel’s most prominent thinkers.

Rabbi Steinhardt had a vision for this trip. He wanted our shared learning and discussions to come to life and take on new meaning. It certainly did. Our prior thinking on multiple issues was challenged, and we came to see the difficulty of the tasks the Israeli people have to overcome. We met religious settlers and their Palestinian neighbors in the West Bank who are trying to make peace in their own small way and bring people together. The clash between ideas of an intractable problem, and the hope for a more peaceful future, was a common theme we kept encountering.

We had the opportunity to see the Israel that Israelis live – shopping, going out to dinner, etc. Of course there was also time for fun! We did a group art project which is on display in Helene’s office – feel free to stop by and see it. We also enjoyed a cooking class with the former Executive Chef at the King David Hotel. The group prepared the entire meal. Rabbi Steinhardt and I will be demonstrating our new culinary skills in the near future (NOT!) Roseanne and I felt very much at home in Israel, and we were very sad to leave.

We all know that Israel faces many challenges… yet there is so much hope. Hanukkah is a time of rededication. May we rededicate ourselves to better understanding the issues Israel faces, and the many sides to them.

B’Shalom,

Ed Sopher

* Of Blessed Memory
Dear friends,

After completing such a meaningful and spiritual High Holy Day season, and as we embark on our busiest time of programming and events, I’m more excited than ever to be serving as your Executive Director. Since taking on this position just months ago, I’ve had the pleasure of meeting so many wonderful people. I look forward to deepening these relationships as we continue to join together in shared spiritual, educational and social activities.

I had the honor of chairing the recent B’nai Torah trip to Israel celebrating Rabbi Steinhardt’s 25th year as our Senior Rabbi. During this trip, Rabbi Steinhardt created opportunities for us to engage with leaders and educators; and share in inspiring experiences. With a strong focus on creating balance, we went to Sderot, and then sang in the desert; we studied at the Shalom Hartman Institute to think about the big issues that weigh on our hearts and minds, and then relaxed as we cooked and toasted Shabbat together. Rabbi gently encouraged us to think about the spiritual side, while remembering to play. We walked away engaged and exhilarated; with new insights into the contradictions and complexities of life in Israel. It was truly an experience of a lifetime!

Looking forward, there are so many exciting things happening at B’nai Torah. I hope you have marked your calendars for our 2020 Concert Series which kicks off in January with our very own Cantor Magda Fishman. And speaking of our new Cantor, please join us on January 11 for an Installation Luncheon as we officially welcome Cantor Fishman to our B’nai Torah family! We hope you’ll join us on Saturday, February 1 for our Annual Dinner Dance honoring Dr. Peter and Elissa Schosheim. This year’s theme, L’Dor V’Dor, from generation to generation, reflects our Honorees’ love and dedication to both family and B’nai Torah. I look forward to celebrating together as we support B’nai Torah and honor Elissa and Peter. It promises to be a fun-filled evening!

Davening, learning, playing, we have it all at B’nai Torah; starting with programming for our youngest children and continuing through birthday celebrations for our beloved centenarians, there’s something for everyone. I invite you to visit the calendar of events on our newly revamped website at www.btcboca.org and follow us on social media.

Wishing you a warm and wonderful holiday filled with love, peace and happiness. Chag Hanukkah Sameach!

TIPS FOR AN ECO-FRIENDLY HOLIDAY SEASON

The holidays are a time of joy, with friends and family gathering to celebrate and spend time together. They are also a time when people use a lot of resources, which can make maintaining an earth-friendly lifestyle one of the bigger challenges.

Here is a list of things you can do to enjoy the holidays in a way that causes minimal harm to the environment.

1) Make Your Own Wrapping Paper or Go Without: Most mass-produced wrapping paper you find in stores is not recyclable because of the shiny coatings, foils and colors, and therefore ends up in landfills. If every family wrapped just three presents in reused materials, it would save enough paper to cover 45,000 football fields. Another option is to use gift bags that can be reused.

2) Shop local: Locally manufactured items do not have to be shipped across the country, thus reducing the amount of vehicle pollution needed in order to get them to you. Choose gifts that are manufactured in an environmentally friendly way, and that have low carbon footprints when they are used.

3) Serve food with washable utensils, plates, and glasses: We know it is much easier to use paper or plasticware. However, disposable dishes and silverware lead to a whole lot of waste. Instead, use washable dishes.

4) Clean with all natural cleaners: Use cleaning products that are non-toxic and ecofriendly.

5) Send digital gift cards: This is one of the best ways to reduce waste and fuel consumption. Digital gift cards can be sent online, allowing the recipient to place orders at online stores.

6) Buy holiday cards that are made from recycled paper: Reduce the number of trees that need to be chopped down by purchasing holiday cards that are made with recycled paper.

7) Donate your time or money to charity: If you are looking to help the environment, there are always opportunities to volunteer or give a holiday donation to an environmental charity.

For more tips for an eco-friendly holiday season, visit: www.conserve-energy-future.com
What do you look forward to most during the holidays? One of the most important lessons we can teach our children is to learn about giving and gratitude. Thanksgiving was celebrated in a very big and new way this year. Together with Summer Faerman and TLC (Tzedakah, Learning and Chesed), our children and families came together to collect food for families with young children who needed food through the One Love, One Community Foundation. After collecting the food and packaging it up, we sent off meals for 30 families. Next, the children enjoyed the Thanksgiving story Turducken, read by author Stacy Jovine in our new reading garden. The day finished with a sing a long and school wide Thanksgiving feast.

Now we fast forward to Hanukkah, the holiday that children get most excited about. Our ECC children are singing with joy and excitement; we have been having fun frying latkes and making crafts. This is also a time when children often focus on the receiving of gifts. As parents, how do we ground them? How do our children learn to enjoy the holiday without high expectations? Have you heard about the four-gift “rule”? Each person will receive four meaningful gifts - something you want, something you need, something to wear and something to read. Many Jewish homes have the tradition of lighting the hanukkiah and giving a gift for each night of Hanukkah. Using a four-gift guideline may help to make the gift giving more meaningful (although you may choose to do two of each gift to keep with the eight-day tradition).

Most importantly, the children at The Ruth and Edward Taubman Early Childhood Center have learned to take care of those who are less fortunate. Giving our children the gift of generosity and gratitude will last a lifetime.

B’shalom,

Naomi Gordon, Early Childhood Center Director
Elysa: First, let me congratulate you on being chosen to be the Honorees of the Gala! How did you feel when you were asked?
E/P: We were surprised! It is a great privilege and honor!

Elysa: You have worn many hats at B’nai Torah, can you elaborate on the ways you have been involved?
E/P: We joined B’nai Torah as congregants immediately when we moved to Florida. Within a year, elissa became Financial Secretary, and remained a member of the Board for many years while working full time as a Social worker. In 1999, she started working at B’nai Torah as Human Resource Manager. She also served as Interim Religious School Director, Interim Executive Director and HHD Coordinator.

Elysa: What is an early memory you have of B’nai Torah?
E/P: Meeting George Goldstein for the first time soon after we first joined. He made a lasting impression and was a huge and important part of our lives.

Elysa: How has B’nai Torah changed over the years?
E/P: We think the outreach into the community has been an impressive addition to B’nai Torah’s mission. The ability to give so much to those in need is truly impressive. B’nai Torah has become much more than just a Synagogue.

Elysa: What do you want to teach your children and grandchildren?
E/P: We have 3 children and 5 grandchildren. We plan on teaching by example. We bring them to B’nai Torah for the High Holy Days, we allow them to experience the love and connection we have to B’nai Torah.

Elysa: What do you like to do together on a quiet day?
E/P: We make it a priority to spend time together and find activities we both enjoy! Life is short, it’s important to make time for those you love.

Elysa: What is your secret to a happy marriage?
E/P: Respect, love, communication and making time for each other.

Elysa: What do you feel is most important to enhance the future of B’nai Torah?
E/P: To embrace life cycle events and to encourage involvement on all levels - especially the young families.

Elysa: In what way has B’nai Torah been a part of your family?
E/P: Our Rabbis and Cantors have officiated at almost every life event... Baby namings, Bris, B’nai Mitzvah, weddings and funerals.

Elysa: Is there anything you’d like to share with other BTC members?
E/P: We would like to express our gratitude to our B’nai Torah family as we prepare and anticipate the upcoming Gala in February. We hope it will be an opportunity to get to know those of you we have yet to meet, and to celebrate together!
You are cordially invited to B’nai Torah Congregation’s Annual Dinner Dance

Highlights from MRS...

We have had a very busy first half of the year at the Mirochnick Religious School! We began with an orientation for the teens participating in this year’s Madrichim program - a wonderful opportunity for our high school students. Madrichim commit to work with our younger students, study with the Rabbis once a month and participate in a variety of B’nai Torah programs.

MRS students learned about and celebrated Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. Together with their families, they experienced the holiday of Sukkot during an engaging B’nai Torah University program, generously underwritten by Joy & Gene Binkovitz. On Hoshanah Rabbah, students participated in a parade with the lulav and etrog, and learned about the special ritual of striking the branches of the willow (the lulav) upon the ground. This is a symbolic attempt to rid ourselves of any remaining sins (the leaves representing these transgressions) that might influence God’s decision to send the seasonal rains.

We had a visit from The Shadow Puppet Workshop creator, Daniel Barash, for an evening show enjoyed by many of our families. Daniel also led a workshop for our teachers on the art of shadow puppets. And finally, this year we welcomed our new music specialist, Laura Lenes. Laura uses music, dance and song to teach our students about Judaism, Torah and the Jewish holidays.
Highlights from our MISPACHA TRACK...

The Mirochnick Religious School launched a new program this year called Mishpacha track, in which the whole family attends religious school together. It is an innovative approach that engages the whole family in Jewish learning. So far, we have had the opportunity to celebrate beautiful Shabbats together, as well as many other learning opportunities. Families also participated in a special project for Simchat Torah. We were learning about cycles, in nature as well as in life. We studied the text from Ecclesiastes: “For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven: a time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted...” We want to thank Uptown Art for helping us to understand the text through a painting project. We look forward to learning together the rest of the year!

Save the dates for our next meetings: January 25 and February 9
The Boca Raton Interfaith Youth Association, Briya, is an organization that respects and honors the religion and culture of the places and the people that are involved. We are attempting to create a space that brings teens of all cultures and faiths together, with an end goal of peaceful co-existence. Events are held about once a month, such as outdoor field trips to enjoy nature and appreciate God’s creations, and visits to the different houses of worship to learn about religious beliefs and customs. We celebrated and learned about Sukkot at B’nai Torah and also participated in the BRICA (Boca Raton Interfaith Clergy Association) Interfaith Thanksgiving Service.

If you are interested in learning more, please contact Cathy Berkowitz at (561) 392-8005.
2019 was a year of “firsts” and “bests” for The Club at B’nai Torah. We held our first ever Sunday Speakers Series with some fun and enlightening presentations. The Club was the driving force behind B’nai Torah’s extremely successful First Annual Golf Tournament in honor of Rabbi Englander’s 20th Anniversary at our shul. We’ve had our best turnouts ever for Men’s Club Shabbat and Scotch in the Sukkah.

Our Club is thrilled to present the return of the West Point Jewish Chapel Cadet Choir on the weekend of January 17th. We expect to have several opportunities for members of the community to see this talented group perform at B’nai Torah and are looking for financial benefactors and offers of housing for the cadets to make it an absolutely perfect weekend.

February is a jam-packed month with something for everyone. This year’s World Wide Wrap is on Sunday, February 2nd. In addition to teaching our religious school students how to lay tefillin, we invite members of our congregation to join us for Hagbah (Torah lifting) lessons. The following night, February 3rd, we will be treating Rabbi Steinhardt to see his beloved Miami Heat in honor of his 25th Anniversary with B’nai Torah. Boca Raton Mayor and BTC member Scott Singer will be our Sunday Speaker on February 23rd. We are looking forward to getting a top-down look at the goings-on of the city.

Men’s Club Shabbat is on February 29th and we are excited to have Eli Beer as our guest. Eli is the founder of United Hatzalah of Israel and President of the US-based Friends of United Hatzalah. Eli has single-handedly revolutionized emergency medical response in Israel which is now a model for life-saving systems throughout the world. At Men’s Club Shabbat, we will also be honoring our soon-to-be announced Man of the Year and Youth of the Year.

Our annual Yellow Candle program memorializing the 6 million Jews that perished in the Shoah will culminate with our Sunday Speaker Jack Boeki on April 19th. Jack has an amazing story of survival and bravery. We’re going to try some new things with this program and really hope that you will participate.

The goal for The Club this year is not only to be the largest Men’s Club chapter in the state of Florida but be the most active one as well. To reach those goals WE NEED YOU. We need you to join the Club and we need you to participate in our events. Whether you’ve been part of the B’nai Torah family for days or decades, the perfect time to be part of the Men’s Club is now. And remember, all paid members receive the exclusive Men’s Club at B’nai Torah kippah. Reach out to me with any questions, thoughts, or to inquire about the opportunities we have for you to get involved!!

Here’s to a great 2020!

Women’s League is off and running with fantastic social and educational activities as well as rewarding volunteer opportunities.

They include everything from a film about aging gracefully, to making pans of macaroni and cheese for an after-school program for needy children, to learning how we can support those who have suffered domestic violence. Our first annual regional Sherry Sukel z’l Torah Fund Day of Learning was an incredible success, with over 100 women turning out to learn!

We learned how to make our own fascinator hats, under the guidance of the talented Candy Barbag, and got together with Men’s Club for Latkas and Vodkas, which this year included dueling pianos!

We provided dinner and played bingo with the residents of JARC, wrapped books at the MRS Book Fair, and went to Stratford Court to light the hanukkiah with the residents.

We are looking forward to our paid-up Member Brunch on January 12th with special guest, author and artist Carolyn Frankel. She will present her new beautifully illustrated book Be Like Rachel: Lessons of Character from Women of the Bible.

We are also gearing up for Women’s League Shabbat on January 25th. This year our special guest is Lise Pearlman, award-winning author, accomplished lecturer, and trail-blazing lawyer. And our exceptional honoree is our very own TLC Director, Summer Faerman.

Please shop at our Judaica Store, which Robin Schwartz manages so capably with the help of many dedicated volunteers!

With so many wonderful programs, I encourage you to be a part of Women’s League and be rewarded with the camaraderie of this incredible group of ladies!
